Definition of the word ‘Renaissance’ as the ‘rebirth’ of Classical knowledge.

The main points are:
- In the late 14th century Italy differed from the rest of Europe in five important ways:
  - It had many Ancient Greek and Roman remains which served as inspiration for the artists of the time;
  - Florence was becoming the wealthiest city in Italy and in Europe as a city of merchants and bankers such as the Medici family;
  - Italian states rivalled with each other for wealth, power and fame as in Ancient Greece;
  - Rome was the headquarters of the Catholic Church.

The main points covered in LEVEL1 together with the following:
- The Italian Renaissance started during the 15th century and ended around 1560 when the Counter-Reformation was in full swing;
- Many 15th century Italian scholars and artists believed that they were living in an age of progress and great cultural change;
- Many Italians at the time felt proud for they considered themselves the descendants of the Romans.
- French historian Jules Michelet coined the word ‘Renaissance’ in his book The Civilization of the Renaissance in Italy (1860).

The Italian Renaissance was unique in history for the following reasons:
- It spread from Italy to most of Western Europe;
- It was long-lasting (from c. 1300 to c.1600);
- It marked the end of the Middle Ages;
- It started the Modern Age in Europe.

The main points are:
- Flavio Biondo (1392-1463) used for the first time the term medium aevum or ‘Middle Ages’ to describe the period between the fall of Ancient Rome and the Renaissance (from c. 400 A.D. to c. 1300 A.D.);
- Marsilio Ficino (1433-1499) wrote that a new age in Florence had ‘restored life to the arts, which were almost extinct.’
- Giorgio Vasari (1511-1574) wrote in 1550 that the arts were moving towards perfection as they had been in Classical times.

Historians today agree that Classical culture did not die out completely during the Middle Ages. In fact they identified three attempts to revive it, centuries before the Renaissance proper:
- The Carolingian Renaissance of the early 9th century, characterized by the founding of monasteries, copying classical texts and the gathering of scholars of Roman literature whose invention of the miniscule alphabet and cursive writing we still use today;
- The 12th Century Renaissance characterized by the building of Gothic Cathedrals, stained glass windows, illuminated manuscripts and the first universities (e.g. Bologna, Padua, Paris);
- The proto-Renaissance period in Italy (1280-1400) during the lifetime of Dante and Giotto.

• Rome: The Basilica of St Peter (the Vatican)
Artistic heritage:
• The Last Supper by Leonardo da Vinci;
• The Monalisa by Leonardo da Vinci;
• The ceiling of the Sistine Chapel by Michelangelo;
• The statues of The Pietà, Moses and David by Michelangelo;
Key features of the Renaissance:
The rediscovery of the dome, realism and perspective in paintings, the human form.

Four features of the Italian Renaissance:
• Architecture: the return to classical features;
• Painting: realism and perspective;
• Sculpture: the study of anatomy;
• Engineering and mechanics: the experiments by Leonardo da Vinci.

Key centres of the Renaissance:
The same in LEVEL 1 together with any one of the following examples: Florence, Rome, Venice.

The main points are:
• Architecture: the return to Classical features (columns and the dome, symmetry and harmony; majestic palaces and gardens replaced castles as the residence of kings and princes;
• Painting: realism and perspective in painting; portraiture; landscapes; religious and profane motifs; frescoes; painting on canvas; tempera and oil painting;
• Sculpture: the study of the human body (Da Vinci, Michelangelo, Andreas Vesalius); The Pietà, Moses and David by Michelangelo;
• Engineering and mechanics: the printing press; Leonardo da Vinci’s sketches;
• The four central ideas of the Renaissance: humanism, secularism, individualism, skepticism.

| 2.1c List important inventions at the time of the Renaissance (printing press, gunpowder, the cannon, navigating compass). | 2.2c Briefly describe the impact of Renaissance inventions on Europeans. | 2.2c Explain the impact of Renaissance inventions.
  Printing press; gunpowder; rediscovery of the classical period. |

- The printing press invented by Johan Gutenberg in Germany (c.1439);
- Gunpowder and the cannon were first used in Europe in the mid-14th century;
- The navigational magnetic compass was first used in Amalfi in the early 14th century.

The printing press:
- It spread information quickly and accurately;
- It helped create a wider literate reading public;
- It took book copying out of the hands of the Church and made it much harder for the Church to control or censor what was being written;
- The Protestant Reformation corresponded with the spread of printing.

Gunpowder and the cannon:
- It destroyed the traditional walled fortification of Europe;
- It created a new class of infantry and artillery units in modern armies;
- It made monarchs more powerful, contributing to the setting up of centralized governments and absolute monarchies in Europe.

The navigational magnetic compass:
- It allowed mariners to determine their position and direction even if clouds obscured the North Star;
- Explorers could now venture to sail across the oceans;
- It made navigation safer, faster and thus increased international sea trade.

- Raffaello Sanzio: painter.

Humanists:
- Petrarch: poet, Classicist scholar
- Machiavelli: diplomat, poet, philosopher, playwright, historian, political analyst.

- Giotto: the father of Italian Renaissance art; started painting frescoes with realistic figures;
- Botticelli: started using mythical themes in his paintings (Spring; The Birth of Venus) and decorated the Sistine Chapel;
- Leonardo da Vinci: he was a prime example of the ‘universal man’. He combined intelligence with imagination to create, at least on paper, such inventions as the bicycle, the helicopter and an airplane.
- Michelangelo Buonarroti: considered one of the most famous artists of the Italian Renaissance. He influenced many artists of the time and thus helped shape Western art.
- Raffaello Sanzio: painter and architect. He is famous for his ‘Madonnas’ and portrait paintings. Together with Leonardo da Vinci and Michelangelo, he forms the trio of great masters of the Italian Renaissance.
- Petrarch: he father of humanism; popularized the study of the Classics by translated Greek works to Latin;
- Macchiavelli: studied the role of morality in society which laid out the field of political science in his book The Prince;
- Erasmus: revised and translated Classical works such as the Bible; contributed to the Reformation by calling for reform through his works.

Refer to the map of Italy in 1494: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Italian_War_of_1494%E2%80%9398#/media/File:Italy_1494_AD.png

- The Renaissance started in Florence and by the 1450s it spread south to Rome and Naples and north to Milan, Venice and Genoa.
- By 1500 it had crossed the Alps and spread to Western, Central and Northern Europe.

Refer to the map of Italy in 1494 as in LEVEL 1.

From Florence the Renaissance spread to the other main cities in Italy for the following reasons:
- Fall of Constantinople in 1453 – many Greek scholars fled to Italy carrying many ancient Greek and Roman texts with them;
- Expansion of trade made Italy one of the richest regions in Europe;
- A growing wealthy merchant class were eager to support artists;
- Italian princes saw art as a symbol of prestige, wealth and power;
- Artists and humanists travelled across Italy and Europe sharing ideas and styles.

Refer to the map of Italy in 1494 as in LEVEL 1.

- The Renaissance started in Florence because:
  - Florentine bankers had influence throughout Europe;
  - Florentine artists and writers became very well known (e.g. Dante, Petrarch, Boccaccio, Giotto and Brunelleschi).
  - Artists such as Leonardo da Vinci, Michelangelo and Raffaello competed with each other to win princely patronage;
  - The Medici rulers of Florence were great patrons of art.

The Renaissance reached Rome because of:
- There followed a series of Renaissance Popes that patronized the new artistic styles, such as Sixtus IV, Julius II and Leo X;
- Sistus IV established the Vatican Library;
- Julius II started building of the new Basilica of St Peter (the Vatican);
- The Popes commissioned works of art by Michelangelo (e.g. The Pietà, Moses and the Sistine Chapel, the Vatican Dome).

The Church in the Middle Ages with brief reference to the following:
- Simony;
- Pluralism;
- Nepotism;
- Sale of indulgences;
- Lack of celibacy.

- Simony: as the buying or selling of ecclesiastical offices or benefices.
- Pluralism: the practice of holding more than one ecclesiastical office (e.g. Bishoprics) at a time.
- Nepotism: the practice among Church dignitaries of favouring relatives or friends to positions of power.
- Sale of indulgences: the practice of payment to the Catholic Church for an exemption from penance for some types of sins.
- Lack of celibacy: the vow of chastity was being widely broken by the clergy.

- He was born in 1483 in Wittenberg, Germany from a peasant family and died in 1546;
- He became an Augustinian friar;
- He studied and taught Theology and the Sacred Scriptures at the University of Wittenberg;
- He visited Rome where he was shocked by the immoral life of the higher clergy;
- He nailed 95 Theses against the sale of indulgences and the teachings of the Church at the Wittenberg Cathedral door (1517);
- He defended his teachings in front of Emperor Charles V at the Diet of Worms (1521)
- He publicly burned the excommunication bull as an act of defiance against Papal authority;
- He was kept in safe custody in one of the castles of the Elector of Saxony where he translated the Bible to German;
- He left the Church and married a former nun.
- He set up the German Lutheran Church.

- Events leading to the Protestant Revolt of 1517 as in LEVEL 1;
- Johann Tetzel’s campaign to sell indulgences in Germany made Luther publish the 95 Theses.

Reasons why the Reformation continued to spread:
- The presence of the printing press in the major cities;
- Luther’s revolt was supported by other theologians and scholars of the time;
- Support given to the Reformation by some of the German princes and the King of France;
- Emperor Charles V was constantly involved in wars against the Ottoman Turks and France;
- The Lutheran Church spread to the Baltic lands and the Scandinavian countries.
- For nearly 30 years, the Catholic Church did nothing to reform itself.

- For the main long-term and short-term causes and consequences of Luther’s revolt refer to the events mentioned in LEVELS 1 and 2;
- Germany became divided between Catholic and Protestant states;
- Religious wars between Emperor Charles V and the Catholic princes on one side against the Protestant princes supported by France.
- The Peace of Augsburg (1555) brought a religious compromise in Germany between Catholics and Lutherans but it left out the Calvinists;
- There is a general agreement among historians that the Reformation movement ended with the Peace of Westphalia (1648).

Definition: The Counter-Reformation was the period of Catholic resurgence initiated in response to the Protestant Reformation, beginning with the Council of Trent (1545–1563) and ending at the close of the Thirty Years' War (1618-1648).

The three agents of the Counter-Reformation:
- The Jesuit Order set up by St Ignatius Loyola as a well-disciplined and centralized religious order, practicing self-denial and absolute obedience to the Pope and the Church hierarchy;
- The Roman Inquisition set up by Pope Paul III as a tribunal responsible for prosecuting individuals accused of heresy, immorality, apostasy, blasphemy, sorcery and witchcraft;
- The Council of Trent (1545-1563) convened by Pope Paul III was prompted by the spreading of the Protestant Reformation.

The Jesuits:
- They made their initial impact by combating advances made by the Protestant Reformation;
- they were entrusted with the education of youths in Catholic countries;
- They were dedicated preachers and missionaries to the point of martyrdom.

The Roman Inquisition:
- It aimed at enforcing Catholic beliefs and morality among Catholics;
- It was responsible for the Index of Prohibited Books (1559).

The Council of Trent:
- It established strict rules and discipline among the clergy;
- It clarified doctrine contested by the Protestants;
- It established strict rules beyond Catholic religious dogma (e.g. Baroque art, architecture and music).

With the help of these three agents, the Catholic Church was able, by the 1560s, to turn on the offensive against Protestantism.

The Reformation:
- Ended the religious unity of Europe;
- The Papacy lost power and influence in Protestant countries;
- Wars over religion within European states;
- Wars over religion between Catholic and Protestant countries;
- Persecution of Protestants in Catholic countries;
- Persecution of Catholics in Protestant countries;
- A 'liberal' Protestant Northern Europe;

The Counter-Reformation:
- Persecution of Protestants;
- Power over morality by the Inquisition;
- The reforms of the Council of Trent;
- A 'conservative' Catholic Southern Europe.

Brief reference to the following points:
- The Reformation:
  - It ended the Medieval unity of Christendom under the authority of the Roman Church;
  - Religious division of Europe;
  - Setting up of Protestant 'national churches' (e.g. the Anglican Church);
  - The Papacy lost considerable power and influence;
  - Long and bloody religious wars;
  - Persecution of Catholics in Protestant lands vice versa;
  - Protestant Europe was more receptive for the Scientific Revolution of the 17th century;
  - It gave rise to economic capitalism.
- The Counter-Reformation:
  - Persecution of Protestants in Catholic countries;
  - Strict Catholic morality in Catholic countries;
  - Reform in the teachings of the Catholic Church;
  - More discipline among the Catholic clergy;
  - Religious conformity dictated by the Inquisition;
  - Less artistic and scientific freedom in Catholic countries (e.g. Galileo’s scientific discoveries).

Include points mentioned in LEVEL 2 together with the following:
- The Reformation:
  - The Reformation movement is considered as one aspect of the new age ushered by the Renaissance;
  - It strengthened the powers of European monarchs;
  - It weakened the authority of the Holy Roman Emperor in Germany;
  - It caused the first long-lasting settlement of Europeans in the North America, which later became the United States of America.
  - The Protestant work ethic emphasizes that hard work, discipline and frugality are values espoused by the Protestant faith, particularly Calvinism. These gave rise to individualism, liberalism and economic capitalism.
- The Counter-Reformation:
  - Expand further the points mentioned in LEVEL 2.

The main explorers of the period are:
- Henry the Navigator encouraged others to sail along the coast of West Africa;
- Bartholomew Dias discovered the Cape of Good Hope;
- Christopher Colombus discovered the West Indies;
- Vasco da Gama sailed around Arica and reached India;
- Amerigo Vespucci gave his name to the New World;
- John Cabot discovered Newfoundland;
- Ferdinand Magellan sailed around the world.

The main explorers of the period are:
- Henry the Navigator trained sailors and encouraged exploration of the west coast of Africa;
- Bartholomew Dias reached the southern tip of Africa and sailed around the Cape of Good Hope;
- Christopher Colombus crossed the Atlantic and discovered the West Indies;
- Vasco da Gama sailed around Arica and reached India;
- Amerigo Vespucci gave his name to the New World;
- Henry Cabot discovered Newfoundland in North America;
- Ferdinand Magellan was the first to sail around the world from west to east.

Refer to the points mentioned in LEVELS 1 and 2. Explain the importance of the discovery of the above-mentioned explorers on navigation, trade and colonization in the late 15th and 16th century.

<td>2.1I Define the terms colonization and/or conquistadores.</td>
<td>2.2I Describe how Cortes conquered the Aztec Empire and/or Pizarro conquered the Inca Empire.</td>
<td>2.3I Discuss the European conquest and/or colonization of the New World. Aztec, Inca</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The main points are:
- Colonization: the process by which newly discovered lands were conquered and turned into colonies by permanent settlers from Europe;
- Conquistadores: a Spanish word that refers to the Spanish adventurers who conquered the Aztec and Inca Empires.

| The conquest of the Aztec Empire by Herman Cortes (1485-1547): He studied Latin and law at Salamanca University, Spain; 1504: went to the New World to seek his fortune; there he worked as a notary for the Governor of Hispaniola; 1518: he commanded his own expedition to Mexico. But when it was cancelled, he ignored the order and proceeded to explore and conquer the lands of the Aztecs; 1520: he ordered the execution of Montezuma, the Aztec emperor; 1522: he was appointed Governor of New Spain until he retired in 1540. The Conquest of the Inca Empire by Francisco Pizarro (1476-1541): The early career of Pizarro; 1513: he helped Balboa discover the Pacific Ocean; 1519: He starts his own expedition in search for gold in Colombia; 1532: He sets for another expedition to Peru to conquer the Inca capital; 1535: He founded Lima after destroying the Inca capital Cuzco; 1541: He was stabbed to death by a rival group of Spanish conquistadores. |

The discussion is to focus on:
- the brutal nature of the destruction of these civilizations (e.g. atrocities and massacres; population decimated by diseases imported from Europe; destruction of Aztec and Inca cities);
- advantages acquired by Spain resulting from their conquest (e.g. slaves; silver and gold; trade in new products such as tobacco, sugar, cocoa, etc.);
- short-term and long-term effects of Spanish domination (e.g., forced labour; enslavement; forced conversion to Catholicism; establishment of the Spanish Inquisition; Spanish settlers; adoption of the Spanish language).

Suggested illustrated sources:
- a map showing the route of the North Atlantic slave trade;
- Slaves caught in the African jungle by slave traders;
- slaves carried on a slave ship;
- a slave auction sale in the New World;
- a slave auction advert;
- a slave being punished for misconduct;
- slaves doing domestic work;
- slaves doing forced labour in mines or plantations;
- a 19th century photograph of a slave family in the United States;
- a 19th century photograph of a slave owning family in the United States.

The main points are:

- maps on the Atlantic slave trade:
  - https://commons.wikimedia.org/wikimedia.org/wiki/File:Slave_route.jpg
  - https://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/File:Slave_trade_from_Africa_to_the_Americas_(8928374600).jpg

Reasons used by those in favour of slavery:
- to sustain the economic development of the European colonies in the New World;
- to replace the native population that perished by diseases brought to America by European settlers;
- to cultivate in the vast areas in the New World, crops that were in high demand in Europe (e.g. tobacco, cocoa, sugar, potato, exotic fruits, cotton, etc.);
- to extract gold and silver from mines;
- coloured peoples were held to be racially inferior by Europeans;
- slaves were not considered as human, but as commodities;

Reasons used by those in favour of its abolition:
- change in public opinion against slavery;
- the Industrial Revolution made Britain’s economy less dependent on the triangular slave trade;
- wage labour became more profitable than slave labour;
- fear of slave revolts would be overcome by abolishing slavery;
- Evangelical Christian Churches questioned the morality of slavery;

The main points for discussion are:
- Exchange of goods and crops;
- Spread of Christianity;
- Setting up of colonial empires;
- Extermination of cultures/civilizations by Europeans;
- Cultural transformation of the indigenous peoples: spread of Christianity; settlers from Europe; European languages; European lifestyle;
- Environmental impact: building of towns and forts; deforestation; mining; plantations; hunting;
- Extermination of the native peoples by diseases from Europe;
- Maltreatment of the native population by European settlers.

The main points are:
- Europeans settling in the newly explored and conquered lands;
- The death of native peoples by diseases brought by Europeans (e.g. influenza and smallpox);
- The enslavement of the native population and the transportation of slaves from Africa;
- Rivalry and wars between European powers over colonies;
- New products were introduced to Europe (e.g. cocoa, spices, sugar, exotic fruits, tobacco etc.);
- Civilizations in the New World were destroyed (Aztecs, Incas);
- In the end the colonists rebelled against their mother countries and attained independence (e.g. American War of Independence; independence of the Spanish Latin American colonies).

The main points are:
- The leading statesmen:
  - Austria: Emperor Francis I and Chancellor Metternich;
  - Prussia: King Frederick William III and Prince von Hardenberg, Chief Minister;
  - Russia: Tsar Alexander I and Count Nesselrode, Chief Minister;
  - Britain: the Duke of Wellington and Viscount Castlereagh, Foreign Minister;
  - France: Prince de Talleyrand, Foreign Minister.

The three principles which guided the decisions of the Congress:
- the principle of legitimacy by restoring rulers deposed by the French Revolution or Napoleon;
- the balance of power between the Great Powers;
- the Holy Alliance as a safeguard against the threat of another revolutionary upheaval.

Refer to the point mentioned in LEVEL 1.

The Congress redrew the boundaries of European states based on the interests of the Great Powers and the principles of legitimacy and balance of power:
- Russia and Prussia over Poland;
- Austria gained Lombardy in exchange for Belgium;
- The Netherlands gained Belgium;
- Prussia gained the Rhineland as a buffer against future French aggression;
- Russia gained Finland from Sweden;
- Sweden gained Norway from Denmark.
- Sardinia gained Genoa;
- Britain gained Malta and the Ionian Islands.
- a German Confederation of 38 states replaced the Holy Roman Empire;
- Italy was re-divided into small states.

Overall assessment of the Congress:
- it brought peace and stability to Europe;
- it brought the restoration of monarchism and conservatism in most of Europe;
- it restored the partition Germany and Italy and thus postponed their unification by another half a century;
- it instituted the Congress System to deal with international questions;
- it gave Metternich considerable influence in Europe.

Brief mention of the main causes of the Siege of 1565:
- Malta was the operation base of the Knights against the Turks;
- The Knights were seen by the Ottomans as allies of the King of Spain;
- The Ottoman Turks were in alliance with the Barbary states against the Knights;
- The Ottoman Empire was still expanding on all fronts;
- The Knights were harassing Ottoman shipping in the Levant.

The main consequences are:
- The Order decided to make Malta its permanent base;
- The fortifications were badly damaged and required urgent restoration;
- The decision to build a stronger fortified town on Mount Sciberras;
- The countryside was left devastated by Ottoman raids during the siege;
- Many Maltese and Knights died or were gravely injured during the siege;
- The Order within months started building of Valletta;
- European rulers helped the Order financially to recover from the siege;
- The Pope send his principal architect to help the Order design the new city;
- The Maltese became loyal subjects of the Knights.

Refer to the causes and consequences listed in LEVEL 1 together with the following:
- It saved the Order from extinction;
- It ushered Malta's history into the modern age.
- By time, the Knights came to be referred as 'the Knights of Malta';
- The Order and Malta became widely known in Christian Europe;
- The Order’s prestige in Europe increased and more young nobles joined the Order.

The consequences of the victory of 1565 are to be explained in terms of negative and positive consequences.

Refer to the causes and consequences listed in LEVELS 1 and 2.

The consequences of the victory of 1565 are to be analyzed in terms of:
- Negative and positive consequences;
- Short and long-term consequences.

The main points are:
- Facts about the two types of ships kept by the Order: the galley the ship-of-the-line;
- the Order was always ready to join Christian forces in naval battles against the Muslims;
- conducted operations of a corsairing nature;
- It organized the Maltese corsairing industry;
- it was the only way the Knights could harass Muslim power in the Mediterranean;
- it policed the coast of the islands against enemy raids;
- it provided Muslim slaves as rowers on the Order’s galleys;
- it provided various types of jobs for the Maltese.

The main points are:
- Participation in the Battle of Lepanto (1571);
- Participation in the War of Candia (1645-1669) between Venice and the Ottoman Empire;
- The capture of the Ottoman Sultana (1644);
- The Battle of the Dardanelles (1656);
- The War of the Morea (1684-1699);
- The War of Corfu (1715-1718);
- The Order’s participation in the Venetian expedition against Tunis (1784);
- Alliances between Christian and Barbary states left the Order with no significant seafaring expeditions against Muslim powers in the Mediterranean.

Refer to the points mentioned in LEVEL 1.
- The important posts within the Order of Admiral of the Fleet and the Captain-General of the galleys;
- The size of the Order’s fleet varied in different times;
- Crew members on the Order’s ships (captain, pilot, priest, slave master (agozzino), master gunner, cock, clerk, surgeon, handyman, carpenter, caulker (calfato), gunners, sailors, soldiers, buonavogli, slaves);
- The Order provided a constant supply of provisions and weapons for its ships;
- Galleys and ships had to be regularly checked for safety and seaworthiness;
- it gave prestige and recognition for the Order as a sovereign military power;
- it served the raison d’être of the Order in the defense of Christendom against the Muslim threat in the Mediterranean;
- The shift from the galley to the ship-of-the-line under Grand Master Perellos;
- The arsenal or dockyard at Birgu served for routine maintenance not shipbuilding;

The main points are:
- The operations of the Order fleet was of a corsairing nature;
- The organization of the corsairing industry and its effects on the Maltese;
- Maltese corsairs had to be in possession of a license;
- The use of the Order’s flag by Maltese corsairs;
- The main Barbary corsair centres: Tripoli, Tunis and Algiers;
- The main Christain corsair centres: Marseilles, Toulon, Leghorn, Naples, Messina.

The main points are:
- The Tribunale degli Armamenti and the Consolato del Mare for cases of litigation between corsairs;
- The 10% tax on corsair booty collected by the Order;
- Legal protection given to Maltese corsairs in foreign Christian ports by the Order’s Consuls.
- The Monte della Redenzione which ransomed Knights and wealthy Maltese captured by Muslim corsairs.

The main points are:
- It served one of the raison d’être of the Order - to attack Muslim ships in the Mediterranean;
- it provided jobs for the Maltese;
- it provided profit for the Order in the form of a 10% tax on all captured booty;
- it made Malta a thriving corsair base for foreign Christian corsairs;
- it provided the Knights and the wealthy Maltese with Muslim slaves.

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The main points are:
- The Order’s fleet became very expensive to maintain;
- The King of France made trade agreements with the Ottoman Turks;
- The Pope imposed restrictions against Greek ships in the Levant;
- Decline in Mediterranean trade;
- The Venetian Republic wanted to establish friendly relations with the Turks;
- Decline of the Ottoman fleet.
- Diminished profit from the corso for the Order and the Maltese.

Restrictions by the King of France:
- French merchants ships started carrying Ottoman goods;
- The King of France pressured the Grand Master to stop sending its fleet to the Levant and threatened consequences;

Restrictions by the Pope:
- The Pope declared himself protector of Greek merchants in the Levant;
- The Pope ordered the Order’s fleet and Maltese corsairs to stay away from the coast of Palestine;

By the Venetian Republic:
- Exerted diplomatic pressure with the Pope to stop the Order and the Maltese corsairs to sail in the Adriatic;
- Venice, itself in decline, wanted to trade not to be at war with the Ottoman Turks.

Refer to the points mentioned in LEVEL 2.

Main motives:
- The need for trade rather than war;
- The rivalry of Christian Powers for a share in Mediterranean trade;
- Decline in the crusading ideal among the Christian powers;
- Decline in the international influence of the Pope;
- The introduction of Protestant Powers competing for Mediterranean trade (England and the United Provinces).

Main implications:
- Reduction in the size of the Order’s fleet of ships;
- Decline in the fighting prowess of the junior Knights previously engaged in the corso;
- Decline in the number of Maltese corsairs;
- Less Maltese employed directly or indirectly with the corsairing industry;
- Maltese merchants invested in trade instead of corsairing;

</table>

The main points are:
- The main protagonists in the conspiracy: Mustafa Pasha, Grand Master Pinto, Giuseppe Cohen;
- The aim of the conspirators was to assassinate the Grand Master in the Palace and to take control of the islands with the help of the Muslim corsairs from North Africa;
- The plot was discovered in time and the leaders were arrested, tortured and executed;
- Strict regulations on Muslim slaves in Malta were issued after the conspiracy.
- Cohen and his family were compensated for having helped in unravelling the plot.

The main points are:
- The date of the plot chosen was 29th June 1749;
- The slaves planned to take control of the Grand Master’s Palace and assassinate the Grand Master;
- Another group of slaves was to take control of Fort St Elmo;
- The Beys of Tripoli, Tunis and Algiers were to come to their aid.
- Malta would then fall in Muslim hands;
- The plot was discovered on information given by Giuseppe Cohen, a Maltese Jew who owned a coffee shop in Valletta, to the Grand Master.
- Three of the conspirators were arrested and interrogated under torture;
- 38 slaves were arrested, interrogated, tortured and publicly executed at Floriana and the Grand Harbour;

The main points are:
- The presence of Muslim slaves in Hospitaller Malta: their duties and living conditions;
- The background of Mustafa Pasha, the leader of the plot;
- The consequences of the failed conspiracy on the living conditions of the Muslim slaves in Malta:
- Restricted freedom of movement of slaves;
- All slaves had to report to the slave prison for the night;
- Slaves were forbidden to leave the city-gates, board a boat, go to the countryside, approach the coast unless accompanied by his/her master;
- All fortifications were forbidden to slaves;
- They could not carry arms in public;
- They were forbidden to carry keys of government stores;
- They were forbidden to gather in streets, in public places and private houses;
- They could gather only for religious functions only.

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The main points are:
- The quarrel with the clergy:
  - Ximenes issued an edict prohibiting the hunting of hares in order to allow them to breed;
  - This edict was met with protests from the farmers and the clergy for opposite reasons;
  - Some clergymen ignored the edict and went out hunting;
  - The Grand Master repealed the edict in July 1774;
  - In May 1775 Pellerano ordered to leave Malta and the Grand Master was blamed for this.

Austerity measures:
- Ximenes took drastic steps to reduce government spending;
- The price of wheat was raised to boost up government revenue.
- A group of clergymen and laymen planned an uprising to make the government aware of the plight of the people.

Refer to the points in LEVEL 1 together with the following:
- Agitation subsided when Ximenes was elected Grand Master in 1773;
- Following the repeal of the hunting edict, representatives of the clergy presented a petition to the Bishop, calling for a Chapter General to safeguard ecclesiastical immunity and the dignity of the clergy.
- All foreign professors were dismissed from the University and reduced the number of courses;
- Certain government offices were abolished while others had their salary reduced.

The events during the revolt:
- A group of clergymen and laymen led by Dun Gaetan Mannarino;
- The revolt was to take place on the early morning of 8 Sep. 1775;
- The guards of St Elmo and St James' Cavalier were taken by surprise and surrendered to the rebels;
- The flag of the Order was lowered and that of St Paul hoisted instead;
- Ximenes called the Council of State to suppress the uprising;
- The rebels at times fired shots from St Elmo;
- In the end the Council decided to assault rebels;
- After a brief skirmish, all the rebels surrendered and were arrested;
- The rebels were imprisoned in St Elmo, awaiting trial in October;
- Ximenes died in November and the trial went on under De Rohan;
- Mannarion and the Cleric Giuseppe Dimech were imprisoned for life.

The causes:
- A sigh of relief after the longest reign of 32 years for a Grand Master;
- Ximenes gave assurances that he will reduced the cost of living;
- As a result of Pinto’s over-spending, the Order was left with an empty Treasury;
- Ximenes issued a number of cost-cutting measures were issued in a very short time;
- A group of clergymen protested and were supported by the Bishop Mons. Pellerano;

The consequences:
- De Rohan set in a number of reforms to improve the financial and economic situation;
- A Chapter General of the Order was summoned since the last one in 1631;
- In 1788, the Order’s annual budget registered a surplus after many years;
- A new Code of Laws was issued in 1782;
- The setting up of the Regimento di Malta, made up of Maltese militiamen.

The main points are:
- The aristocratic nature of the Order was contrary to the principles of the French Revolution: liberty; equality; fraternity;
- Some of the younger Knights were being influenced by the ideas of the Enlightenment philosophers;
- Most French Knights and their families escaped as émigrés after the storming of the Bastille;
- The Order continued to support the French Monarchy during the Revolution;
- The French Government threatened to confiscate the Order’s property and revenues in France.

Sequence of measures taken by the French Revolutionary Government against the Order:
- June 1791: the Order gave money to help the King escape to Belgium;
- Jan. 1792: two Knights insulted French officers in Genoa;
- July 1792: The Legislative Assembly withdrew the French citizenship of the French Knights;
- Aug. 1792: the Order condemned the deposition and imprisonment of the King by the Assembly;
- Aug. 1792: the Order’s ambassador in Paris escaped to Savoy;
- Sep. 1792: the Assembly confisced the Order’s property and sold them by auction;
- Nov. 1792: the Convention debated the possible invasion of Malta;
- Jan. 1793: following the execution of the King, the Order joined the European coalition against the Revolution.

Following the execution of the Louis XVI, Grand Master De Rohan abandoned the previous cautious policy of neutrality and:
- Prohibited French ships to hoist the tricolor flag;
- Refused to acknowledge the new French Republic;
- Refused to accept the new French ambassador.

With the end of the Reign of Terror (July 1794) and the French victories in Italy under Napoleon (1796-1707), several Maltese patriots and French Knights turned in favour of the Revolution.

In the meantime, the Order, faced again with grave financial problems, turned to the other Great Powers for support.

When the French Government came to know that the Order had concluded a treaty of assistance with Russia in 1797, it gave General Bonaparte the task of securing the Maltese Islands on his way to Egypt.

<td>The main points are: Social reforms: ▪ Equality before the law; ▪ Titles of nobility abolished; ▪ Abolition of slavery; ▪ Freedom of the press; ▪ Freedom of conscience; ▪ The release of political prisoners. Administrative reforms: ▪ The Order’s property became Government property; ▪ A French-Maltese Commission of Government; ▪ Malta divided in 12 municipalities (districts). Educational reforms: ▪ Primary schools were to be opened in the main towns and villages; ▪ 60 students were to be sent to study in France; ▪ Scientific subjects were to be taught at the Polytechnique (the former University). Church-State relations: ▪ Religious orders were to keep only one convent; ▪ Church property was confiscated; ▪ The Inquisitor's Court was abolished and the Inquisitor expelled; ▪ Court appeals to the Roman Curia were stopped. Refer to the list of reforms in LEVEL 1. ▪ Equality before the law was enshrined in the British principle of the ‘rule of law’; ▪ Abolition of slavery was confirmed by the British; ▪ Press censorship was reintroduced by the British until 1839; ▪ Mikel Anton Vassali and Dun Gaetan Mannarino were released from prison by Napoleon; ▪ The Order’s property was never returned to the Order but became British Imperial property in 1800; ▪ The French-Maltese Commission of Government collapsed with the Maltese uprising; ▪ Malta’s municipalities were abolished by the British; ▪ The French Government did not have the time and the resources to implement Napoleon’s educational reforms. ▪ Church property was returned once the British took over the islands in 1800; ▪ The Inquisition was never restored in Malta; ▪ Court appeals to Rome were resumed until 1828. Refer to the list of reforms in LEVELS 1 and 2. The Maltese noble families were reluctant to renounce their titles of nobility; ▪ Maltese families had to renounce property rights over their domestic slaves; ▪ Freedom of the press did not materialize since only the Government newspaper Journal de Malte was published; ▪ Freedom of conscience affected the Jews who now could have a synagogue in Malta; ▪ The educational reforms did not interest the majority of the Maltese, most of whom were farmers or illiterate; ▪ Reforms that affected the Church aroused widespread condemnation by the clergy and the Maltese who were very loyal to the Church; ▪ Probably with the exception of the chierici, or patentati (the Inquisitor’s trusted agents), the abolition of the Inquisitor’s Court was met with a sigh of relief by most of the Maltese.</td>

The main points are:
- The Maltese were pressured to participate in the commemoration of Bastille Day on 14 July;
- Freedom of the press was not implemented in practice;
- The Maltese were lured to joined Napoleon’s army headed towards Egypt;
- People who had their property damaged during the invasion were promised compensation;
- Pensions and charity to paupers were stopped;
- The interest rate charged by the Monte di Pietà was raised from 4% to 6%;
- Money invested by the Maltese in the Massa Frumentaria were confiscated by the Government;
- Silver-ware left by the Knights was melted down to make coins.

Refer to the points mentioned in LEVEL 1.
- For most of the Maltese, Bastille Day had no significance at all;
- The Journal de Malte was published in French, so most Maltese were unable to read it;
- Those Maltese who joined Napoleon’s army did not receive their wages;
- The Monte di Pietà was mainly used by the poorer classes;
- Wealthy Maltese lost their money which had been invested in the Massa Frumentaria;
- Most farmers were accustomed to borrow money from the Massa Frumentaria to buy tools, seeds and manure at very low interest rates;
- The French Government lacked the money necessary for the upkeep of the former Order’s administration.

Refer to the points mentioned in LEVELS 1 and 2 together with the following:
- All that was needed was a trigger which would start a chain of events resulting in the Maltese uprising of 2nd September 1798, namely:
  - The news of the destruction of the French fleet at Aboukir Bay by Nelson;
  - The widespread rumor that the French intended to confiscate treasures from the Carmelite Church at Mdina.

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The main points are:
- Napoleon's fleet was destroyed by the British at the Battle of Abourkir;
- On 2nd Sep. Reynaud de Angelis sent the officer Masson and a group of French soldiers sent to despoil churches in Rabat and Mdina*;
- The Maltese were informed and managed to hide the treasures before the French arrived;
- The French roamed the streets of Rabat insulting the Maltese*;
- A group of Maltese captured and threw three French soldiers from the balcony of a French sympathizer;
- The French garrison closed the gates of Mdina and waited for reinforcements from Valletta;
- The Maltese chose Manwel Vitale as their leader;
- On 3rd Sep. the Maltese entered Mdina – in the assault, 20 French soldiers and two Maltese were killed;
- The Maltese gathered outside Porte de Bombes and blocked the French from sending help from Valletta;
- Mgr. Francesco Saverio Caruana resigned from the Commission of Government, joined the rebels and was appointed General with his HQ at Casa Leone;
- The Gozitans, led by Dun Saver Cassar, Archpriest of Rabat, rebelled as well and made their HQ at the Banca Giuratale;
- On 5th Sep. Gen. Vaubois prepared his troops for a long blockade within the harbour forts and towns;
- Refer to the points marked with an (*) in LEVEL 1, together with the following:
  - The paternalistic government of the Knights was discontinued by the French;
  - The French government, always short of money, sought to despoil the Maltese of their wealth by increasing taxes and interest rates;
  - The French treated the Maltese as a conquered territory and abandoned government on the principles of liberty, equality and fraternity;
  - Many Maltese who had been employed under the Knights lost their jobs (e.g. at the Holy Infirmary, with the Order's fleet, at the University);
  - Wealthy Maltese families had to free their domestic slaves when slavery was abolished;
  - Most of the clergy turned against the French when church property was confiscated.
- The main points for discussion are:
  - From the Maltese perspective:
    - Once the Maltese started the revolt, there had reached a point of no return;
    - The only way forward after 3rd Sep. was to stop the French from reaching Rabat and Mdina and punish the rebels;
    - The Maltese soon realized but they could not defeat the French garrison at Valletta without foreign help;
  - From the French perspective:
    - The French underestimated the level of Maltese discontent and the events at Rabat and Mdina took them unprepared;
    - Vaubois realized that control of the countryside and Gozo was already lost and decided to defend the harbour towns until reinforcements came from France;

- Manwel Vitale, General of the Maltese at the Banca Giuratale, Mdina;
- Dun Mikiel Xerri, Gugliermo Lorenzi and Matthew Pulis, leaders of the plot against the French in Valletta;
- Dun Saverio Cassar, Archpriest of Gozo led the revolt of the Gozitans.

Foreign leading figures:
- General Henri Vaubois, French Governor in Malta;
- Lord Horatio Nelson, British Vice-Admiral who sent help to the Maltese;
- Capt. Alexander Ball was sent by Nelson to help the Maltese organize the blockade;
- General Sir Henry Pigot negotiated the conditions of the capitulation of the French garrison in 1800.
- King Ferdinand IV of Naples and Sicily sent troops, weapons and grain supplies to the Maltese;

The main points are:
- The setting up and the measures taken by the National Congress to govern the islands on behalf of the King of Sicily;
- The plot by Dun Mikiel Xerri and his associates;
- British assistance by Alexander Ball and General Graham;
- The expulsion of thousands of Maltese from Valletta and the Three Cities during the blockade;
- The fever epidemic of 1799 and its effects on the population;
- The blockade of the coast by Portuguese and British ships;
- The capitulation of the French garrison to the British.
