There once was a grandpa who lived with his family. As grandpa grew older, he began to slobber and spill his food. For this reason, the family had him eat alone. When he dropped his bowl and broke it, they scolded him and got him a cheap wooden bowl. Grandpa was so unhappy. One day, the young grandson was working with wood. "What are you doing?", mum and dad asked. "I'm making a wooden bowl," he said, "for when you two get old and must eat alone." Mum and dad then looked sad and realised how they were mistreating grandpa. They decided to keep quiet when he spilled his food and to let him eat with all the family.

Say no to bullies!

"Hey! It's me again!" calls Zanele, 12, into the microphone. It's Saturday morning and the radio show has just started. Zanele can hardly wait to have her say. Today's show is about peer pressure and bullying – something that Zanele knows all about.

"Listen up! If your best friend tries to make you do something you don't want to – dump him or her. You can always make new friends," Zanele tells her listeners. "That makes me a celebrity," she laughs. Zanele tells the listeners about the time her friends tried to get her to smoke cigarettes. When she refused, they bullied her and told her that she couldn't be in their group. "You know what I did? I stood my ground and made a new friend that respects me for who I am," she says. A little later, a listener calls in. She's eleven years old and says she has a similar problem. Her friend wanted her to steal crayons and pencils from a shop. "Thanks for the tip," she says. "Now I have the courage to say no".
